1. Consider Charles Handy, author of "The Age of Unreason" (1989), and his lecture entitled "Education for a New World" that he delivered December 2001 at the British Library.
2. Each LESSON in the Central Database has a reference number in the heading such as 3.2.192 where the first digit denotes the Database, the second digit denotes the Volume, and the next number denotes the LESSON number. Page numbers of Lessons are not used. Referencing a particular paragraph is done by adding a small "p" and the paragraph number. For example: reference "one God is all multiple many one collective are Elohim" using the reference (3.2.192 p13).
